Greetings from the New Library Director

The people of Baton Rouge are known for their warm hospitality. I've experienced this firsthand as I've settled into my new position. It's a pleasure to be a new resident in the most exciting and progressive city in the United States. It's also an honor to be selected to work with library staff as we endeavor to expand the reach of the Library in the upcoming years. The East Baton Rouge Parish Library is known throughout the country for its innovative system of branch libraries. The quality of information access and exceptional programming has defined this system as a leader in the world of libraries. This is a testament to the determination of a dedicated staff and a determined Library Board of Control. I look forward to working with each of you in preserving the high standard of excellence already in place as well as taking on new challenges in the near future.

I have found in my short time here that Baton Rouge has everything. Energetic business leaders, a wide variety of worship choices, forward thinking elected officials and best of all, great food! The library is an all inclusive organization as well. We offer wonderful opportunities for unlimited access to so many enjoyable pastimes that make living here a unique experience. Whether you appreciate the finer points of local and state history or you simply want to enjoy the latest offering on the programming calendar, the library can meet your needs. The upcoming Big Read: One Book/One Community will once again establish our library system as a leader in community programming. During Spring 2009, all are invited to read Ernest Gaines' A Lesson Before Dying.

The upcoming new construction projects will be an exciting challenge for the next few years. The building accomplishments of the past are a defining measure of what is expected in the future. The Library is a national leader and award winning system in regard to outstanding architectural as well as accessible structures. The new Main Library will be an outstanding example of technological advancement. The interior aesthetics will create a new standard for beauty and efficiency. There are many challenges ahead as we endeavor to continue in the direction begun by the Library Board of Control several years ago. I am excited to take the next step as we break ground on the new Main Library very soon.

The East Baton Rouge Parish Library System has an outstanding staff dedicated to service and citizen access. I have watched their pleasant approach to library patrons. I have also noticed their intense desire to assist patrons while searching for information. Soon I will have visited all branches and spoken with each employee in the system. I look forward to this interaction on a regular basis. The concept of a full service library system begins with communication and determination. Library staff has developed an all inclusive approach to meeting the needs of patrons that remains second to none.

I have met with State Librarian Rebecca Hamilton. We spoke about the need for the our Library system to establish a new approach toward accessibility and outreach throughout Louisiana. Her outstanding leadership is known across the country and her achievement of increased funding for Louisiana public libraries is admirable. I look forward to working with Rebecca and extend my service to her as needed. The Library has a wonderful opportunity to develop a strong relationship with all public libraries around the state. We will not fail in creating these needed partnerships.

I look forward to working with the entire Baton Rouge community in the years to come. There is much work to be done as we take on the challenges that lie ahead. Again, thank you for the warm welcome and please let us know how we can assist you.

Sincerely,
David Farrar, Director
East Baton Rouge Parish Library

Paula Poundstone to Visit Baton Rouge!

Emmy-award winning comedian Paula Poundstone, the national spokesperson for Friends of Libraries U.S.A. (FOLUSA), will appear at the Manship Theater on Saturday, January 31. The "Wait, Wait...Don't Tell Me!" panelist, mother of three, and author will lend her name, voice, and humor to support the Library's own friends group, POPL. POPL will raffle off tickets to see Poundstone at the membership social at the Main Library on Thursday, December 4, at 2:00 p.m.

"We're absolutely thrilled that Paula Poundstone is using her celebrity status to help highlight and support Friends of the Library groups," said Sally Reed, Executive Director of FOLUSA. "Each one of these volunteer citizen organizations work hard throughout the year to raise money for and public awareness about their libraries. Libraries would be immeasurably poorer without them."

"There I was in another unbalanced relationship," begins Emmy-award winning comedian Paula Poundstone, "I could borrow anything I wanted from my library unless it was in the reference section or nailed down. And what was I giving back? It was unhealthy. Now I've joined Friends of the Library. I'm helping them raise money for children's summer reading programs, author events, computers - I feel good. Join your Friends of the Library chapter. All you have to do is call your local library and they'll tell you how. If you haven't been to the library lately, you're overdue."

Paula is so quick and unassuming that audience members at her live shows often leave complaining that their cheeks hurt from laughter and debating whether the random people she talked to were "plants".

Copies of the book, There's Nothing In This Book That I Meant To Say, will be available for purchase before and after the performance. Following her one-woman show, Poundstone will be available for book signing.

Among her many accolades, Poundstone is an EMMY Award winner. She was the first woman to be invited to perform at the White House Correspondents Dinner, and the first woman to win a Cable ACE for best standup comedy special. She's also won an ACE for Program Interviewer and an American Comedy Award for Best Female Standup. Other appearances include: Garrison Keillor's A Prairie Home Companion, Real Time with Bill Maher, Late Night with David Letterman, and several specials on HBO.

FOLUSA is a national organization which provides resources, services, and networking opportunities for over 3,000 Friends, Trustees, and library Foundations across the country to increase and enhance their efforts on behalf of libraries of all types. For more than 25 years FOLUSA has offered training, support, and idea sharing for library supporters around the country.

Santa Sends Letters in Braille

One of the greatest holiday traditions for children is sending a letter to Santa at the North Pole. This year, the tradition will get even better. Beginning December 1, Braille letters from Santa will start going out to boys and girls around the country. The Braille letter will also be accompanied by a print copy (for mom and dad to read), and parents can choose the contracted or uncontracted form of Braille for the letter.

"Santa approached the National Federation of the Blind a couple of years ago and asked us to be his helpers," said Dr. Marc Maurer, President of the National Federation of the Blind. "I'm quite fond of the fellow and was delighted that we could assist him in his work. Braille literacy is the key to success and opportunity for the blind; besides, reading Braille is lots of fun. It's really exciting for kids to get their very own Braille letter at Christmas time from jolly old St. Nicholas himself."

From Sunday, November 16 through Tuesday, December 16, parents can go online at www.nfb.org and fill out a Santa Braille Letter request form. The form can also be printed and faxed to (410) 659-6893. Requests for letters must include the writer's name, the child's name, birthday, gender, mailing address, and a telephone number or e-mail address in case Santa's helpers at the National Federation of the Blind have questions.

The deadline for letter requests is December 16, to ensure that a return letter in braille is received before Christmas.

For more information about this and other programs of the National Federation of the Blind, visit www.nfb.org.

Storytime at the Library

Storytime gives children an excellent introduction to books and the library, increases their attention spans, and develops their social skills by involving them in stories, poetry, and songs. The Children's Services staff hopes Storytime will be an enjoyable experience for each child, leading to a lifelong love of books and reading.

You are always welcome to attend Storytime with your child. We offer three different Storytime formats. Since children develop at different rates, you may talk with one of our library staff members to place your child in a younger or older group. Call your local library for more information.
